In the past ten years, the newspaper "Zhas Alash" has become a large republican publication that publishes articles on topics that are not covered in the pro-government media, but attract the attention of readers - about the indivisibility of the Kazakh land, about the problems of the Kazakh language.

Today "Zhas Alash" is one of the most popular, democratic, socio-political publications in the Kazakh language. The newspaper covers important historical events taking place in the republic and in the world. In addition to daily news, "Zhas Alash" regularly publishes articles on politics, economics, literature and culture, industry and ecology, law, finance and management, marketing, education and health care, art and other topics.
